RE: SUPPORT – House Bill 802 – Maryland Medical Assistance Program – Telemedicine

The Maryland State Medical Society (MedChi), which represents over 8,000 Maryland physicians and their patients, supports House Bill 802.

House Bill 802 expands the requirement for Medicaid to reimburse a health care provider for telemedicine to be consistent with current Maryland law as it applies to health insurance carriers. It requires the Medicaid program to “reimburse” a health care provider for telemedicine services in the same manner as if the service had been delivered in person. It is clear that the delivery of medical services by telemedicine is occurring on an exponential basis and is of particular value in accessing specialist care. The advantage of telemedicine is that the access can occur immediately rather than requiring the patient to make another appointment at another place at another time.

In 2013, Senate Bill 496 was enacted which required Medicaid to reimburse for telemedicine only for stroke and cardiovascular disease in limited circumstances. In large part, the limitations on the reimbursement were based on an estimated fiscal impact that was far greater than MedChi believed would occur. The fiscal note associated with House Bill 802 more realistically mirrors that experienced in other States. MedChi believes the fiscal impact may actually be less than that predicted as the estimate does not account for savings that will be realized from improved access and associated averted health care expenditures. MedChi urges a favorable report.
