RE: OPPOSE – Senate Bill 807 – Drivers’ Licenses – Disorder, Disease, or Physical Disability – Identification, Disclosure, and Reporting

The Maryland State Medical Society (MedChi), which represents more than 8,000 Maryland physicians and their patients, opposes Senate Bill 807.

Senate Bill 807 makes a number of changes to existing law governing the limitations on the renewal of driver’s licenses when certain health issues exist with the driver.

MedChi recognizes the need to identify drivers who may have diseases, disabilities or disorders which impair their ability to drive. However, this legislation expands considerably the potential diseases, disorders and disabilities which can be identified and which could result in the non-renewal of driver’s licenses. Currently, the list includes disorders involving lapses of consciousness and vision. Senate Bill 807 expands that to include “other diseases or physical disabilities that may render an individual unable to exercise reasonable control over a motor vehicle.” This would bring in a much broader range of health problems, including diabetic and allergy patients, to name just a couple. When properly managed, these diseases do not generally pose any risk, yet under the legislation they could be the basis for non-renewal.

Secondly, MedChi is concerned with the apparent exception made to the physician-patient privilege. On page 4, at lines 20-25, the bill would allow all health care practitioners - except psychiatrists, psychologists and certain nursing specialists - to make a report to the Medical Advisory Board about a patient and their disease. Current law appears to restrict the providers' ability to make that report to circumstances where the patient has authorized the report in writing.

MedChi appreciates that there may be diseases and disabilities beyond those identified in current law which may affect a person's ability to drive, but believes the expansion set forth in the bill goes too far in that regard.

For these reasons, MedChi opposes Senate Bill 807 as it is currently drafted.
