MEDCHI TO HOLD CME SERIES ON THE USE OF CANNABINOIDS IN MARYLAND

BALTIMORE, March 27, 2018 — MedChi, The Maryland State Medical Society, is holding a series of Continuing Medical Education activities entitled The Use of Medical Cannabinoids in Maryland: A MedChi Breakfast Series. The next activity in the series will take place on March 30, 2018, 7:00 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. The featured speaker at that meeting will be Dr. Ehsan Abdeshahian from the Maryland Medical Cannabis Commission.

Dr. Abdeshahian will speak on the Maryland Medical Cannabis Commission: Regulation, Education and Resources. He will address regulations, quality control and training for dispensaries; the appropriate interaction between physicians and dispensaries; the potential impact of Federal Regulations on Maryland's Medical Cannabis approach; and the educational and other resources that will be available to support the clinical use of Medical Cannabinoids.

MedChi is focused on providing physicians with as many resources and educational support to help them in the use of Medical Cannabinoids for their patients. This activity will provide Continuing Medical Education Credit for physicians.

This series began in December of 2017 with a presentation by Dr. Francisco Ward with an overview presentation on Medical Cannabinoids in Maryland. Further sessions in the series are under development.
