Community Health Resources Commission
Budget Hearing

Senate Budget and Taxation Committee
Subcommittee on Health and Human Services

February 17, 2022

The Maryland State Medical Society (MedChi) wishes to register its strong support for the Community Health Resources Commission (CHRC). The CHRC was first created to provide a mechanism for the State to provide grant funding to creative community-based projects with the objective of identifying approaches to addressing Maryland's access to care challenges in underserved communities. The CHRC's impact on this objective is notable and has been recognized by policymakers as new initiatives related to the medically underserved communities have been identified. The confidence in the CHRC is exemplified by the decisions to have both the Health Equity Resource Communities (HERC) initiative and the Consortium on Coordinated Communities Supports (Consortium) administered by the CHRC.

The CHRC has been an invaluable force in Maryland's ongoing effort to assure adequate access to high quality health care services to all Maryland residents. MedChi fully supports the work of the CHRC and urges this Committee to retain the full funding for the CHRC reflected in the Governor's budget for CHRC's core grant program as well as the HERC initiative and the Consortium.
